CHINESE BARRED OUT.

EXCEPT AS THEY DO AT PRESENT.

The Senate Not in Favor of the Total Exclusion Act, Though.

CRISP AND REED AT IT ONCE MORE

WASHINGTON, April 25 .- The Vice President not having returned to the city, the Senate was presided over to-day by Mr. Manderson, its President pro tem. Numerous protests from the States of Missouri, Texas, Virginia, Michigan, Arkansas, Wisconsin and Dakota, principally from Seventh Day Baptists and Adventists, were presented, asking Congress not to commit itself to any religious creed by urging the Sunday closing of the Columbian World's Exposition. Also, two remonstrances from Massachusetts against the passage of the Chinese exclusion bill.

Mr. Butler gave notice that on Thursday of next week he would ask the Senate to take up for action the bill to transfer the Revenue Marine from the Treasury Depart ment to the Navy Department.

Mr. Allison expressed the hope that when appropriation bills were ready they would take precedence of all other matters. Mr. Coke gave notice that he would address the Senate very briefly to-morrow on Mr. Morgan's silver resolution.

The Chinese exclusion bill was then taken up, and the presiding officer put the ques-tion on the adoption of the substitute re-ported by the Committee on Foreign Af-fairs. A Single Vote, But Unanimous.

Mr. Sherman gave the only affirmative vote, and there being no vote in the negative, the presiding officer declared the substitute adopted. Immediately afterward, however, Mr. Mitchell, who had the floor to speak against the substitute, came into the chamber, and the presiding officer was pro-ceeding to put the question again when Mr. Butter said he understood that the substitute and been adopted.

The presiding officer admitted that he had so decided, but said he would put the question again.
The Senator from Ohio, said Mr. Butler, was unanimous. [Laughter.]
"While the chair did so decide," said the presiding officer, "the chair will count it as 'no vote." Is the Senate ready for the ques-"No. sir." said Mr. Mitchell.

"No, sir," said Mr. Mitchell.
Instead, however, of proceeding with his own argument against the substitute, he yielded the floor to Mr. Squire, who argued in favor of the House bill, or of some other vigorous measure to enforce exclusion of the Chinese. He declared, however, that the great trouble in the matter was the lax and ineffectual manner in which the existing exclusion laws were executed.

Mitchell Couldn't Vote for It. Mr. Mitchell said that, much as he regretted to untagonize the deliberate judg ment of the Committee on Foreign Relations, he felt impelled by a sense of duty to tions, he felt impelled by a sense of duty to vote against the substitute reported by that committee, and in favor of the principles of absolute Chinese exclusion, as expressed in the House bill. He was not, however, inspired with great hope that anything he might be able to say at this time would be potential in preventing the adoption of the substitute. Nobody should suppose that he was talking with ing the adoption of the substitute. Nobody should suppose that he was talking with a hope of defeating the committee's substitute. He knew that it would be adopted by an overwhelming malority.

The discussion was continued until 4 o'clock, when the vote was taken on the substitute reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations for the House bill, and the substitute was agreed to—yeas, 43; nays, 14. The following is the vote in detail:

Yeas-Mossy, Allien Pats, Bern, Pats

Yeas-Messrs, Allison, Bake, Berry, Brice, Butler, Call, Carey, Carlisle, Cockrell, Coke, Colquitt, Cullom, Dawes, Bixon, Frye, Gorman, Gray, Hansbrough, Higgins, Hiscock, Jones
(Ark.), Kyle, McMillan, McPherson, Manderson,
Morgan, Paddock, Palmer, Peffer, Perkins, Pettigrow, Platt, Proctor, Pagh, Ransom, Sawver, Sherman, Squires, Stockbridge, Vest, Vilas,
Walthall and Washburn—43,
Navs-Messrs, Allen, Blodgett, Chandler, Daulel. Dubois, Felton, Jones (Nev.), Mitchell, Sanders, Shoup, Stewart, Teller, Warren and Wilson, -14. Messrs. Wolcott and Dolph were paired with Messrs. Kenna and George.

A Race Between Political Parties. Mr. Platt moved to amend the substitute so as to exclude from the anti-Chinese laws to be extended for ten years the Scott exclusion act of 1888, and made a brief argument in support of that amendment.

Mr. Sherman said he was not inclined to vote for the amendment, although he de-clared the Scott law was one of the most vicious laws that had been passed since he had been in Congress. Its passage, he said, was the result of a mere race between the two politi-cal parties to try and influence the vote of the Pacific coast in the last Presidental elec-

Mr. Platt's amendment was rejected— yeas, 8: naya. 43. The affirmative votes were given by Messrs. Bate, Blodgett, Call, Dawes, Dixon, Frye, Platt and Pugh. Mr. Chandler offered an amendment in-creasing the penalty for the unlawful com-ing of Chinese laborers. Rejected without a division.

Mr. Felton offered an amendment requir Mr. Feiton offered an amendment requiring all Chinese residents (except diplomatic and other officers and their body and household servants) to obtain, within one year, from the Collector of Internal Revenue in their respective districts, certificates of residence, and appropriating $100,000 to carry out that provision. After discussion Mr. Felton's amendment was rejected.

The bill as amended was then passed without a division, and the title was amended so as to read, "To prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States." A conference with the House was asked, and Messrs. Dolph, Davis and Butler were appointed conferees on the part of the Senate.

The Bill Passed in the Senate.

The Bill Passed in the Senate. The bill as passed is as follows:

"That all laws now in force prohibiting and regulating the coming into this country of Chinese persons, and persons of Chinese de scent are hereby continued in torce for a period of ten years from the passage of this act.

period of ten years from the passage of this net.

"Section 2—That any Chinese person, or person of Chinese descent, when convicted and adjudged under any of said laws to be not lawfully entitled to be or remain in the United States to China, unless he or they shall make it appear to the Justice, Judge or Commissioner before whom he or they shall make it appear to the Justice, Judge or Commissioner before whom he or they are subjects or citizens of some other country, in which case he or they shall be removed from the United States to such country; provided, that in any case where such other country of which said Chinese person shall claim to be a citizen or subject, shall demand any tax as a condition of the removal of such person to that country, he or she shall be removed to China.

"Section 3—That any Chinese person, or person of Chinese descent arrested under the provisions of this act shall be adjudged to be unlawfully within the United States, unless such person shall e tablish, by affirmative proof, to the satisfaction of such Justice, Judge or Commissioner, his lawful right to remain in the United States.

"Section 4—That any such Chinese person, or person of Chinese descent, once convicted and adjudged to be not lawfully entitled to be or remain in the United States, and having been once removed from the United States in pursuance of such conviction, who shall be subsequently convicted for a like offense, shall be imprisoned at hard labor for a period of not exceeding six months, and thereafter removed from the United States as hereinbefore provided."

After a short executive session, the Senate adjourned.

l'ersonn'ities in the House. Personal matters occupied the attention of the House, again, to-day. Should or should not Mr. Walker's unspoken remarks deriding his colleagues, Messrs. Williams deriding his colleagues, Messrs. Williams and Hoar, as "Mugwumps," appear in the Record? The Democrats thought they should not, while the Republicans, basing their opinion principally upon the action of the House a few days ago, in deciding that a book of Henry George's might be spread upon the Record and given tree publication and distribution, were of a contrary opinion, so the day was practically wasted. A slightly acrimonious colloquy between the Speaker and the ex-Speaker gave spice to the proceedings.

and the ex-Spenker gave spice to the pro-ceedings.

The pending question when the House met was the motion made by Mr. Reed, of Maine, Saturday last, to key on the table the resolu-tion expanging from the Record such por-tions of the speech of Mr. Walker, of Massa-chusetts, which were not uttered on the floor, and which reflect on his colleagues, Messrs. Williams and Hoar. The Republic-

The motion to recommit having been defeated—yeas 28, navs 152—Mr. Boutelle move an adjournment. This was lost, as was also a motion for a recess.

Mr. Richardson, of Tennessee, moved a cal of the House, there evidently being a quorum.

quorum.

Mr. Boutelle rose to another question. This was taken under clause 2 of rule 17, which provides that a call of the Hoose shall not be in order after the previous question is ordered, unless it shall appear upon an actual count by the Speaker that a quorum is not present.

The Speaker replied that the roll call had shown there were but 146 members present. Crisp and the Maine Men for it,

Mr. Boutelle inquired whether the Speaker eclined to count, as required by the rule. The Speaker replied that the count on the yea and nay vote showed the presence of but 146 members.

Mr. Bontelle inquired whether the Chair would not count the House.

The Speaker replied that if he had not satisfied the gentleman, it was the gentleman's misfortune, and not his (the Speaker's) fault.

man's misfortune, and not his (the Speaker's) fault.

Mr. Reed—There should not be any exhibition of temper on the part of the Chair.

The Speaker—There is not; and there should not be any attempt at scolding on the part of the gentleman from Maine.

Mr. Reed—Not at all. Now, I want to ask the Chair if he regards his action as a fulfilment of the requirements of the rule?

The Speaker—The gentleman ought to know that if the Chair did not so regard it, the Chair would not so state it.

Mr. Reed—Then as the Chair interprets the rule, it does not require him personally to make a count of the members present?

The Speaker Stands by His Ruling.

Mr. Reed—The rule requires the Chair to count.

The Speaker—The Chair will enforce his ruling. If the zentleman objects to any ruling of the chair he has all his rights.

Mr. Reed—In a House three-fourths Democratic? I guess not.

The Speaker—In a House strictly impartial, and which will do justice even to the gentleman from Maine. [Applause on the Democratic side, during which Mr. Reed made a remark which was inaudible.]

The Speaker—The question is on ordering a call of the House.

The Speaker—The question is on ordered, and 220 members responding, further proceedings were dispensed with and the vote recurred on the motion for a recess. This was lost, but as no quorum voted, the House adjourned.
